DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-8 and 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Tsuga.

Note: Figure 10.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-11, 13, 17-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tsuga in view of Romano.

Tsuga discloses in figures 1-10 a traveling lift that anticipates a device for treating a dislocated hip, substantially as claimed. However, Tsuga doesn't disclose the lift assembly including a ratchet or a screw jack. Romano teaches in figures 1-5 a lifting device that includes a lift assembly comprising a ratchet, a hydraulic device or a screw jaws. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time that the invention was made that either of the lift assemblies as taught by Romano could be used to lift a patient to support a dislocated hip. The method steps recited in claims 19-23 and 19-27 can be performed using the device disclosed by Tsuga and taught by Romano. It is old and well known to use a scale or a meter to determine the amount of force applied to a patient's leg.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed October 9, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Tsuga isn't geared towards a device that threatens a patient with a dislocated hip by allowing the dislocated hip to be reduced. However, it isn't clear how a device will allow a dislocated hip to be reduced. Is a portion of the hip being removed? Clearly no portion of the hip is being removed in the present invention. Tsuga is capable of preventing a dislocated hip from being separated from the femoral joint. In figure 10, of Tsuga the hip is located in the leg sleeve. Tsuga doesn't have to mention that the hip is being prevented from being dislocated. Tsuga, simply has to be capable of performing the method. A patient with a dislocated hip could be treated (moved from one location to another, to simply prevent bed sores from forming on the patient) using the device disclosed by Tsuga. Applicant argues that Romano does not remedy the deficiencies of Tsuga. However, Romano was used as a modifier to provide the teachings of a lift that includes a ratchet, a hydraulic device or screw jaws. Applicant argues that scales and meters are not known in the prior art. However, the traction art provides scales or meters to determine that amount of traction that is applied to a patient's hip.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
